

Publish in Fvcina di Marte Series (of the Italian Society of Military History)

Fvcina di Marte is a SISM series that has published 20 volumes so far, of which 1 monography in Spanish and 4 collections in English.

The books are published with ISBN in open access (on our site, and on our pages on academia.edu and researchgate) and the Authors receive the PDF and retain the copyright, with the right to republish their texts in any form and time, with the sole request of citing the first edition.

Since these are online texts, we have no particular limits on size or illustrations (provided the latter are free or licensed by the copyright owner).

Moreover, our graphic designer is very good at enhancing the quality and placement of the images.

The only caution concerns the possible printing of paper copies, because if they exceed 550 pages, binding becomes difficult.

Our limited funds don't allow us to print paper copies, but the Author can do it freely, even with Amazon or other forms of self-publishing and even for profit.

In this last case, it's enough to simply change the cover and the ISBN and write that it is a reprint or a second edition.

Once the book is approved by our board, we are very fast at publishing: generally one month from delivery of the text regularly formatted in Word, provided that the Author or Authors are quick in reviewing the drafts and don't make significant changes).

Policy, Ethics and Stylesheet for Fvcina di Marte are the same as Nuova Antologia Militare.
